“ Justin, how do I sum up thirty years of friendship in a paragraph? I'll miss our inside jokes, funny stories, playing games together and the silly nicknames we used to give characters or people whose real names we didn't know or couldn't remember. You were always so much fun to be with, and we had so many laughs.

You're one of the kindest, most thoughtful, sensitive, open-minded, considerate, gentlest, fun and funniest people I have ever had the pleasure of knowing. Much of my love for art, animation, storytelling and wrestling I got from you, and so often now I'll see so many things I wish I could show you – new movies or shows coming out, silly memes or funny pictures that you'd get a kick out of.

You were my best and oldest friend, and I miss you terribly. 35 years was not nearly enough, but I am grateful to have known you and for the memories we have, and I will always love you. Thank you for being such a big part of my life, and the best friend I could ever ask for.

“ Justin, took a bit for me to collect my thoughts on what to say. I could write a novel on how great of a person you are. Writing this is terribly hard for me. Everyday I wake up hoping this was just a bad dream.

You brought such a light to my life. One like no other person ever has. You were so kind, understanding, cheerful, loving, and so unbelievably amazing. You understood me like no other. Everytime I needed to vent or to clear my head you were always there. You understood what was going on in my head n made me feel like I wasn't going crazy for thinking the things I did. You talked me through my bad days.. You brought me smiles when nobody else could.

I scroll through fb and see these funny memes, or cute animal videos.. Or those ugly hairless cats u loved so much n I wan a share them with you and I no longer can.

With all of my heart I love you. I love you for being the most incredible friend I could possibly ever ask for. I will miss you greatly n never forget everything you've ment to me or done for me. Love you always my nugget.

“ My Dear Justin,
You were a precious gift. You had a beautiful gentle soul just like your dad . You were pure of heart and had great sensitivity for the world around you . You brought love into your parents heart that they had never experienced. You taught them unconditional love . Val, as a mom you allowed his uniqueness to shine through . You embraced his love of wrestling, video games and anime . What it comes down to is that you where and are a wonderful mother .
